THE NEW-TORK LEDGER is always exciting. Pithy, pointed, fresh and invicing,
Pithy, pointed, fresh and invicing,
Filled to the brim with the tip-toppest writing,
Which young and old find equally delighting;
Jokes and stories, with grand illustrations,
Beautiful pictures, and fresh disti lations Beautiful sictures, and resea due in the combinations, Of genius and art in just combinations.

Fill up the measure of bright fascinations.

Ladies and Lords, Kiogs and Empresses, Children and Fascats, and Dukes and Seamstresses, Valus THE LEDGER for its pleasing variety.

And look for its coming with greatest anxiety.

The NEW-YORK LYDGER is the great Family Newspay which monopolises the services of all the best writers in Ames. FANNY FERN does not write a line for any other pap but the LEDGER. SYLVANUS COBB, jr. also writes excl but the LEDGER. STLVANUS COBB, jr. also writes exclusively for it, and Mrs. Sigounney, Miss Ginson, Mrs. Vaughan, and "all the rest of 'sm" cor startly strick its pages. Every number of the LEDGER contains 'arge and splendid angravings, illustrating the thrilling Tales of these preemitent writers.

Wherever there is a newsoffice the LEDGER can be bought every week, as it comes out. It is also sent by mail for two dolumns.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.—We copy into the press on the new-york LEDGER. While Mr. SONNER thank, THE NE w-YORK LEDGER. White Mr. SONNER thank, friendly citiers for their "Ind words," he would no place an over-estimate upon them. The OPINIONS of THE PEOPLE he prises more highly than he does those of any editor, no matter how cordially they may be expressed. BONNER locks upon his readers as a clergyman does upon his congregation. He is aware that the utmost good feeling must evist hat ween them and him; and when he has the west next. congregation. He is aware that the utmost good feeling must exist between them and him; and when he has the most posi-tive seurence of the existence of this feeling, he knows that ing must be in a healthy, harmonious and prosperous the extraordinary circulation of THE LEDGER is the lence that can be advanced of its excellence, especially when we take into considerate the following a eli-tribed article on severtising:

The art of advertising has been brought to great perfe in this country Fortunes have been made by printer's ich and we have never heard of an instance, where the means were julic cualy applied, but the gain was large in proportion to capital invested in that way. A new candidate for fortune has ely spruig up, but whether he will be successful, time alone il detrimine. He is a newspaper publisher! Our readers, ubtless, have often noticed in The Baltimore Daily Sun, from doublies, have often noticed in the battainer baily still, item two to four columns of a 'tale' on the first page, which waterrain to wind up in this way: 'We nave Lo room for the remainer of this thrilling tale; it can be found in the columns of The New York Ledger, bc. Now, but he we understand the this is published in The Sun as an aivertisement, and paid for at the jake of 50 cents for each six lines! Of course, posses will read the first part of the tale and become interested, and buy a Lever, and on seeing it, perhaps sake ribe fr it. In the issue of June 21, we find one entire page of six wide columns de wated to one of these Ledger teles. It is called 'A Story of Ship and Shore, by Sylvanus Cobb. ir. The terms of advertising in The Tribune is $1 a line for one insertion. At a rough calculation, we make this page cost The Ledger man $1,000, which is a pretty fair bill to pay for one advertisement, for one time only. But suppose only one out of ten of The Tribune needers buys a Ledger, to finish the story; he would be used in the presence of the color of the tribune readers buys a Ledger, to finish the story; he would be used in the presence of getting subscribers. Whether BONNER DESERVES success or not, one thing is sure: he has succeeded—succeeded, too, in more ways than one, He has succeeded in establishing THE LEDGER on a firmer and better foundation than any literary paper has ever occupied in this country. He has successors in engaging the best and meet popular writers in the e-untry; he has succeeded in collecting around him a miserable set of —— (but no matter; we have simost sworn not to notice teem); he has succeeded, too have almost sworn not to notice team); he has succeeded, too in comocstrating that untiring energy, perseverance and enterprise can accomplish almost mirroles; and isst of all, he successed yesterday in issuing THE LEDGER with its large and costly Engravings of the TWO GREAT DISASTERS in sode season. If you want to know how he successed in selling it, just ask the Newsmen. They will furnish you the desired information and a copy of THE LEDGER into the bergsin, for the small, paltry, insignificant sum of FOUR

From The New-York Vindicator. THE NEW-YORK LEDGER.—We have al-ways, since we had any con nection with the press, been fully aware of the benefit- to be cerved from a liberal and ju-dicious expenditure in the line of advertising, and we believe diclous expenditure in the line of advertising, and we believe every one must be impressed with the obvantages of sold a course, in proportion to their acquaintance with the subject. It is seldom the case, however, that new spaper publishers advertise in the columns of cotemporaries while they have an extended circulation and advertising columns of their own through which to speak to the people; but instances of the kind do some times occur. As a cese in point, and as an illustration of the times occur. As a case in point, and as an illustration of the extent to which the principle is applicable, we might mention that Mr. BONNER, proprietor of THE NEW-YORK LEDGER, makes use of the savertusing columns of the leading daily papers to the amount of about $1,000 and sometimes $3.500 perweek. THE LEDGER is a weekly literary paper, employing several of the best writers on the continent, among schom may be menticzed SYLVANUS COBB, JR and FANNY FERN, who now write for this paper exclusively. Tale to many would appear a most reckless expanditure from the income of a weekly issue but when it is considered that by this means the circulation of his journal has been related from mething up to over 150 000 apples per week, it will be seen that Mr. Bon-per's misdom and business foresight are even greater than the lessee of ineasity to which be has been supposed to be subject

From The Albany Transcript. WE are glad to see the great success of BON-NER, of TEE NEW-YORK LEDGER. A year ago his paper was behind the times, in comparison with the circu-lation of a few literary papers published is Boston; he cut strips them all how, and informs his readers that he circulated 150,600 LEDGERS every week, and "hopes to turn the 100 corner before the close of the per." WE recognize in R. BONNES, Proprietor of THE NEW YORK LEDGER, one of the most enterprising polylabers of the land. All that could be done to secure for his journel an extensive circulation has been tried. Nor have these efforts been made without their editable restand. On some occasions more than an Adomand deliare have been expected in advertising a single issue. If we add to this a liberal payment to a nethbours and the cost of hands and materials, it will speem clear that an immense amount of money is appropriated for the increased circulation of the paper. The literary talent displayed in its columns, in coonscion with the spirit of enterprise sublibited, has enabled THE LEDGER to be set of an enginese calcilition—greater by thousands of copies than any literary paper published. Money and expective mettal labor are expended, unsperingly to make the paper acceptable to its nation of readers. It is known and amplifications in the paper of the paper
